Thank you for your interest in sponsoring CurtisCon!

CurtisCon 0x01 will take place November 20, 2026, with a full evening of programming including a talk track and a live music track. CurtisCon is expected to attract an audience of around 50-75 people, drawn from Philadelphia's hacker, security, and arts communities, as well as members of the public. Last year, our inaugural event, drew about 40 attendees. This year we are formalizing the event into a proper convention, with a full Call for Papers, a dedicated music program, and expanding the event to two floors of 319 N 11th St.

Enclosed you will find information for potential CurtisCon 0x01 sponsors, including the different levels of sponsorship available and the benefits our sponsors receive in return for their support. CurtisCon is a free event for all attendees, and it is our sponsors who make that possible.

Thank you for your consideration. Your support enables us to do what we do.

What is CurtisCon?

CurtisCon is a hacker arts and culture conference focused on bridging the gap between the technical and artistic side of hacker culture. Our mission is to educate the public on cybersecurity topics and to foster collaboration and exchange between the wider Philadelphia art scene and the Philadelphia hacker communities.

CurtisCon takes place at 319 N 11th Street a hub for local and independent artists home to the Vox Populi gallery, HallPass artists' collective, and Saika Cafe. On the technology side CurtisCon is proudly partnered with our local DC215 DEF CON Group, and work closely with both the Mapache Salvage and Ex Machina Parlor hackerspaces.

Talks on technical and cybersecurity topics are run throughout the evening in Reclaimer's Hall on the 5th floor, complemented by live music on the 3rd floor in Vox Populi's Black Box event space. Attendance is free and open to the public with merchandise sales subsidizing event costs.
